Driver shoots self after chase

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A man apparently shot himself after leading police on a lengthy pursuit through West Sacramento on Friday.

West Sacramento Police Department Lieutenant Todd Sockman said the man, identified as Barry Gene Fandrich, died of his injuries on Friday night.

"What happened was, he was down at the Broderick boat ramp," explained Sockman. "The original reporting party saw him with a gun and called the police. The reporting party gave a description of (Fandrich's) vehicle. One of our officers happened to be down the street, and as our officer was coming into the area, he saw that vehicle pulling away from the boat ramp."

The officer saw that the driver had a gun.

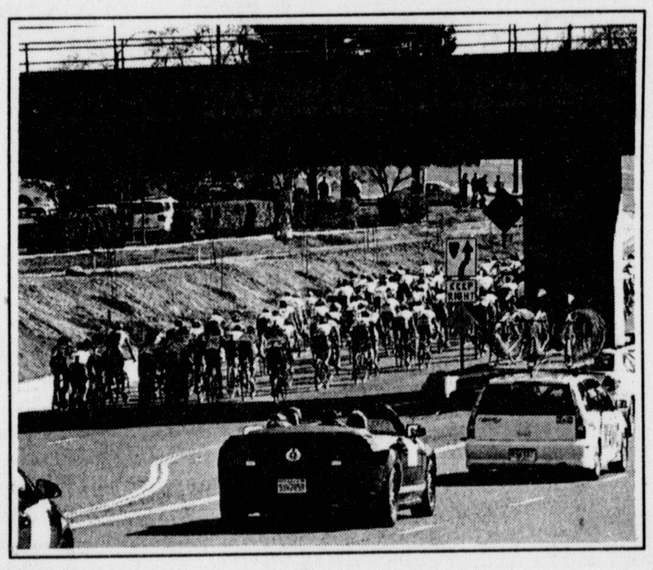
"He had a gun, and pointed it out the window and shot it," said Sockman. "I don't think he was aiming at the officer or anything, he just shot it."

That started a police pursuit with lights and sirens – lasting "around 10 miles" through residential streets in the north area, and then over towards Reed Avenue near the Highway Patrol academy.

"We deployed spike strips to try to stop the vehicle," said Sockman. Two of the car's tires were flattened by the spikes. Eventually, the car stopped.

"Right after it came to a stop, he put a gun to his head and shot himself," Sockman said.

Two-wheeled tempest



AMONG SCATTERED SPECTATORS lining West Sacramento streets, the excitement built as local police, highway patrolmen, firemen and volunteers combined to close some major roads and make way for an unusual bunch of visitors to West Sacramento yesterday afternoon:

Then nearly 150 riders with the Amgen "Tour of California" bike race sped into town, and out again, at speeds of around 30 miles per hour. West Sacramento was near the finish line of Stage 2 of the Tour de France-style stage race, which began in San Francisco and ends in Southern California.

Riding in a single peloton, the mass of cyclists entered West Sacramento from the north, along the Sacramento River. Then they connected to Sacramento Avenue, made a right on Jefferson and a left on West Capitol to head for the Tower Bridge and a capital city finish.

As the group of riders turned from Sacramento Avenue to southbound Jefferson (ABOVE) it was members of the Discovery Channel team in the lead. The team's Levi Leipheimer held the lead going into the stage.

At right, the racers spin under the railroad overpass on Jefferson as they approach the Safeway shopping center. Accompanying the riders are media and entourage vehicles -- the course was closed to other traffic for about 40 minutes yesterday afternoon.

Ahead in government:

Special council meetings continue

The West Sacramento City Council will continue its special "facilitated" meetings today. The meetings, which began yesterday, are meant to cover "a broad range of city matters, procedures, policies and functions," according to a press release.

Today's meeting begins at 8:30 a.m. at the council chambers.

Also ahead in local government this week:

The school district's bond oversight committee will meet today at 6 p.m. at the Washington Unified School District's board room, 930 Westacre Road.

Agenda items include status of the project of building a new high school, and a report on expenditures, as well as the replacement of a committee member.

Students, district leaders and the media all converged on West Sacramento's Southport Elementary School on Friday as the campus dedicated its new "World Peace Rose Garden."

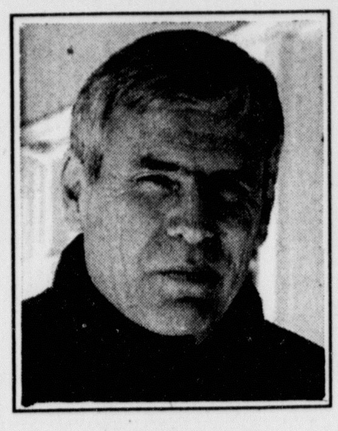
What to teach your kids before they leave home

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

While on his lunch break, a friend of mine was recently looking over an article he had come across in an old Parade magazine when I happened upon the scene.

"So, what's that you're reading?" I asked him with anticipation, knowing that we're often interested in the same things.

"It's a great little article about what parents should teach their children before they leave home," he explained.

"Could I read it when you're done?" I quickly asked, knowing a good column idea when I hear it. "Maybe I can use it one of these weeks in the News-Ledger."

"Why do you think that subject would make a good column?" he asked with interest.

"Because it has a universal theme that will touch a chord with all parents."

"Which is?"

"How in the heck can we get our kids to actually leave home and live on their own."

"Oh," he said, smiling, "that is getting to be a pretty big problem nowadays, isn't it?"

"I think it probably has a lot to do with how expensive it is now for kids to move out on their own."

"I know. When I left home I was only 19 but I had a pretty good job at a grocery store that easily paid all my bills. Not too many of those kind of jobs exist anymore for kids just getting started."

Anyway, when I got a chance to read the article, it broke the stuff parents should be teaching their kids before they leave home down into the following categories:

Domestic skills, like cooking a traditional breakfast, lunch and dinner (not just microwaving or open and pour); washing and ironing clothes (without ruining them); and replacing buttons and polishing your own shoes.

Physical skills, like learning how to swim, fly a kite and throw and catch a ball without breaking one's fingers.

Handyman skills, like how to hang a picture without poking a dozen holes in the wall; painting neatly; knowing which tools perform what function; and how to sharpen a knife without ending up in an emergency room.

Outdoor skills, like how to hike without getting lost, bitten or covered in a rash; fishing (including cleaning them); and camping without getting eaten by a bear.

Practical skills, like typing with both hands; setting up your own computer system; and safely driving and maintaining a car (including being able to change a flat tire).

Organization skills, like creating a budget, balancing a checkbook, and maintaining a personal appointment calendar so you end up most days where you're supposed to be.

And finally some social skills, like how to dance, carry on a conversation, speak before small groups, and even tell jokes that don't gross everyone out.

"I don't know about you," said my friend, "but after reading that article, I'm feeling like a pretty poor parent."

"Me, too."

"I mean, none of my kids can cook, that's for sure. In fact, they're all more or less like that guy on the television commercial who would starve if there wasn't a Burger King on every corner. And if a button falls off one of their shirts or sweaters, they just figure it's time to go out and get another one."

"I guess I should have done more things with the boys," I admitted, "like taking them fishing and stuff, but I've always hated sitting around all day long being outsmarted by a trout."

"And I guess I could have spent more time teaching my kids how to balance a checkbook," said my friend, "but that would have required them taking enough time away from their friends and computer games to get a job and put some money in the bank."

"And I guess I should have been better about teaching them all some handyman skills," I said.

"Well," said my friend with a big smile, "first you would have had to get someone to teach you some handyman skills."

"That's true," I admitted. "Sorry."

"At least all of my kids can type with two hands," pointed out my friend.

"Excellent point! In today's world, that is a must, and all my kids are pretty good on a computer keyboard, too."

Later that evening, still feeling like one of the lousiest parents in West Sacramento, I went up to my youngest son and said, "I want you to tell me the truth. Do you feel that you have been properly prepared to leave home and go out into the real world?"

"Is that some kind of trick question or something?" asked my son suspiciously.

"No, of course not."

"Then is it some kind of hint or what?" asked my obviously alarmed son.

"No, no, no, I've just been thinking that maybe we should have done more things together -- you know, like fishing."

"But I hate fishing."

"And that I should have taught you more stuff -- like how to change the oil in your car."

"That's why they have a Jiffy-Lube on every corner, Dad."

"And how to sew a button on a shirt and iron your clothes."

"That's what we have Mom for."

"I mean, you don't even know how to cook, do you?"

"Come on, Dad, you're starting to freak me out."

"Look, all I'm saying is that when the time comes, I want you to feel like you're prepared to go out into the real world and not want to run back home."

"Can we please talk about this later, Dad? I'm kind of in big hurry."

"Where are you going?"

"I'm on my way over to Burger King to get something to eat. Want something?"

By Richard Novoa

The NFL season is officially over but the musical chairs for hiring coaching staffs continues as the NFL scouting teams prepare for the college draft combine and 11 days before free agency bidding wars start.

The 49ers, which have $40 million to spend on free agents and 10 picks in the first four rounds, may have lost big time when the San Diego Chargers signed their offensive coordinator Norv Turner as their new coach.

For the second consecutive year the Niners have lost their offensive coordinator. Turner, who will inherit a Super Bowl bound team, was a great selection by the Chargers who fired Marty Schottenheimer last week after posting a 14-2 season. The road to the 2008 Super Bowl in Arizona starts next week for NFL teams. I miss football already!

Kings Korner

The NBA All-Star party is over so it's back to the real world for the Sacramento Kings and their loyal fans. The Kings, who failed to have any players represent the franchise in any event at the All-Star game in Las Vegas, are now faced with an uphill climb to the 8th playoff spot in the Western Conference.

The Kings (22-29) trail the Nuggets, Clippers, Warriors, and Timberwolves by three games for that elusive 8th and final spot. Don't forget the NBA's trade deadline is Thursday, Feb. 22nd and the Kings could surprise everyone with another move like last year's surprise trade for Ron Artest. Mike Bibby's name is at the top of the most wanted list by NBA teams followed by Brad Miller and Artest.

It would be nice if the Kings could figure out a way to acquire center, Pau Gasol, from the Grizzlies for Brad Miller or maybe snag Vince Carter or Jason Kidd, who are rumored to want to relocate. Miller, who is still nursing a sore foot, is listed day-to-day and Kenny Thomas is also missing practice with a bad back. The Kings could package these two guys and add some needed offensive to there stagnate line-up. The Kings need another shooter to take the pressure or double-teaming off Bibby and Martin but remember rebounding is still the name of the game.

The Kings have 31 games remaining with only 14 home games and are a miserable 7-17 away from the Arco Arena. Its time for coach Musselman and his staff to work some magic and earn their salaries. Musselman and his Kings must win around 22 of their remaining games to even have a prayer of making the playoffs this season.

The Kings will play the weakest team in the NBA (Boston) on Tuesday night (7 p.m.) at the Arco before their fly east to play the Wizards (4 p.m.) on Thursday followed by a back-to-back with the New Jersey Nets on Friday. The road trip gets worse with a Saturday night off before another back-to-backer with Indiana on Sunday and Philly on Monday.

The Kings must win two on the road or you can kiss the season good bye. Hey, maybe they will bring back Jason Kidd or Vince Carter from this trip for their next home game on Feb. 28th against Charlotte.

Diamond Notes

Spring training opened up this week for pitchers and catchers so lets hope the Giants $126 million dollar man, Barry Zito, finds his way across the Arizona desert (Phoenix) to the Giants training camp instead of his former Oakland A's site in Scottsdale. Armando Benitez is rumored to be under weight (260 pounds) and ready to earn his closer spot in the Giants bullpen and the G-Men are bringing back Russ Ortiz as a possible 5th starter. Ortiz, 32, has posted a 5-19 record the past two seasons with Arizona.

The A's, who finished second in the A.L. West, starting rotation will feature Rich Harden, Joe Kennedy, Esteban Loaiza and Joe Blanton which is a far cry from the days when Zito, Mulder and Hudson took to the mound. Brad Halsey and Dan Haren will battle for the 5th spot in the rotation. New manager, Bob Geren, is familiar with the farm teams after working his way up the A's food chain.

Between the Ropes

On Thursday, February 22nd (7:30 p.m.) boxing returns to the Radisson Hotel with "Fight Night" co-featuring Eric Regan (23-3, 19 KO's) against Kavell Finger (26-1) and Michael Simms (19-5) vs Louis Azille (18-3).

This should be a great boxing card that will feature amateur fights from local boxing gyms in Sacramento including the professional debut of Brandon Gonzales, the U.S. and golden glove regional champion. Ticket prices are $35, $50 and $75 can be purchased at the door or by calling 916-782-4757.

Lady Raiders wind up season

News & photos by Steve Marschke

The River City High School's girl's basketball season came to an end on Thursday, with a 63-53 loss to Foothill. The Raiders showed a lot of spirit on the court during "senior night," honoring senior players who were on the court for the last time.

Overall, River City racked up seven wins and 20 losses, with a 2-13 record in league play. But Coach Jamie King sees a bright future:

"The positives are that we have a tremendous amount of youth in the program," he said. "We are only graduating two seniors."

King added that he is especially proud of these seniors, and that the program "will do everything possible between now and next November to build a championship basketball program to the West Sacramento community."

Meanwhile, the girls' jayee team finished with a victory over Foothill and a winning 16-11 overall record (8-7 in league play). The girls freshman team posted a 2-11 record.

River City's boys, coached by Jon West, will continue to the post-season with an 18-10 (11-5 in league) winning record.

Feb. 15, 9:49 p.m.

An officer saw a 22-year old Reuter Drive man driving a stolen 1988 acura at the 1500 block of West Capitol. The man was pulled over and arrested.

Feb. 17, 9:51 p.m.

A 47-year old north-area man was arrested after shoving his wife, by the throat, into a bedroom wall. The man was also the subject of three outstanding warrants.

Feb. 17, 3:42 p.m.

Feb. 18, 6:08 p.m.

A Southport woman reported that she had been in a fight with her boyfriend over her car keys, leaving her with a minor injury. The man was arrested.

Officers responded to a Southport address, where a 30-year old domestic violence suspect physically resisted them. He was arrested.

Feb. 19, 11:30 a.m.

A 19-year old Antelope man fled a vehicle stop and then locked himself inside his vehicle when stopped at the 2300-block of West Capitol. He was then taken into custody. Found were stolen auto parts. The man had an expired license.

Feb. 19, 10:29 a.m.

An officer responded to a car overheating and smoking in the street. The 37-year old Sacramento Avenue man with the car appeared to be under the influence of drugs, and asked "Is this vehicle stolen?" The man admitted having used Vicodin and methamphetamine. He was booked.

Last Wednesday evening at the Sisters' Hospital in Sacramento a baby girl was born to Mrs. J. N. Peterson. A Caesarian operation was necessary but Mrs. Peterson stood the operation well and from latest reports is getting along nicely. The baby is a welcome little stranger in the Peterson home long looked-for and the only one in the family.

A great ditch is being excavated through the ranch which will subsequently be filled with water for alligators that are to be planted there. Several of the local boys are to be employed herding the 'gaters. The high price of fur has prompted this move.

"No fish" is the word being passed by the sportsmen and fishermen during the past week. The low stage of the river seems to prevent any salmon getting up this far.

No formal exercises were held in the public school today when the Christmas recess started, but all the kiddies were delighted with the prospect of two weeks of fun without books.

The exercises in the Riverbank school were well attended and a splendid program entertained the parents and visitors. School was also dismissed in Riverbank till after the holidays.

The praiseworthy object of raising funds with which to secure more playground apparatus was continued last Wednesday night at the public school when another dance was held. A fair crowd attended and the evening was much enjoyed by those who took part. Good music is one of the features of these dances.

THE WASHINGTON IMPROVEMENT CLUB WILL BACK ANY EFFORT TO ACCOMPLISH TOWN FILLING

With the Financial Support Offered by the Bankers of Sacramento no Property Owner Should Hesitate to Help

The Improvement Club of Washington at its meeting last Tuesday night devoted considerable time to the question of town filling which has been promoted to a successful issue so far.

In order to accomplish the project without difficulty to the small property owner, the support of the bankers of Sacramento has been invited and in every case where those bankers were approached the most lenient terms were offered, in order that the property owners could pay the cost of improvements consequent on the filling.

It is estimated at this writing that the average cost of raising a home in Washington will not exceed $250.

The property owner may not have that much cash available and may be forced to borrow for a while. The proposal of the bankers of Sacramento is to take a mortgage on the property offering as much necessary funds as will complete the work of improvement at a rate of 6 per cent interest for such time as the property owner may need it.

This would come very easy on the man who is raising a family or buying a home and payments could be made to extend over a period of two, three or four years.

The property owner would naturally be the gainer because lots improved by filling will immediately double in value according to the proximity to Sacramento.

The Improvement Club appreciates that filling may discommode some people for a time and that many plants would likely be buried and several trees may die through filling the town.

This would only last for a short time, for sand decomposes and becomes fertilizer after a few years.

As in comparison with the conditions prevailing at the present time, the improvement would be a marked benefit and will make the town a haven for those who cannot secure homes in Sacramento.

With the advent of the Virden Packing Company and a large cannery it is safe to say that not less than 2,000 men will be employed in the great industries on the Yolo side of the river.

With steady and permanent employment those men will find homes near their place of occupation, hence the desire of the Improvement Club of Washington to fill the streets and lots to grade so that the town may become a pleasant place to live as high as any part of Sacramento with ample drainage westward for all time to come.

The advantages to be accomplished are too numerous to be mentioned or even imagined at this writing.

A supply of gas for fuel is assured and will likely be available before next fall.

The plant of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company in Woodland has been condemned by the City Trustees of that town and the decision has been arrived at to remove the structure. A future supply will be piped to Woodland from Sacramento and will supply Washington and Davis on the way.

Work on this project will be started very soon and plans and estimates have already been made.

It will be necessary to secure the consent of all the property owners of the town before filling can be started, and a missionary movement is on foot on the part of the members of the Improvement Club that will likely be successful.

It should be borne in mind that the filling will be taken from the river bed by suction dredgers through the engineers of the War Department. These are anxious to dispose of the excess material and getting rid of it without cost is the object to be attained.

In this way two birds will be killed with one stone.

U. S. FIBER PRODUCTS FACTORY WILL START WORK ANY DAY

The finishing touches are being done on the plant of the U. S. Fiber Products Co. in West Sacramento with the probability that wheels will be turning in a few days and a steady force of men will be at work.

The mangement announces there will be no blare of trumpets or no big feed to usher in the first moves, nor will there be public stake-driving at which Hiram Johnson will be present.

The factory is nearly ready and material is on the ground to build insulating boards and wall board.

Hundreds of tons of rice straw are stacked in the yards of the plant and rice hulls are being taken from the two large rice mills in the vicinity.

The great machinery has all been installed and is being adjusted. The large warehouse at the north end of the plant is ready to receive stock and the drying shed is ready.

A visit to the plant is well worth the time. The management has no objection to such visits provided that the machinery be avoided and the workmen be not delayed.

The plant should have been ready on October 1st but one delay followed another because of shortage of building material and scarcity of labor.

It is rather surprising that all the difficulties ahead of filtration were not foreseen when the people voted $1,800,000 to secure clear water.

The fire occurred at night, and because of the breaking of the fire hose, it had to be fought with snow. The building had stood in Paradise for more than fifty years. Buckingham writes that his house was saved with difficulty.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY IMPROVEMENT CLUB

Last Tuesday evening officers of the Washington Improvement Club were elected for the coming year and installed with the usual ceremony.

The officers are:

President, Mrs. E. A. Palm; Vice-President, Mrs. J. McNevin; Treasurer, Mrs. W. E. Curry; Financial Secretary, Mrs. P. J. Braun; Recording Secretary, Mrs. W. A. Parkinson; Trustees, Mrs. Wm. Wilson, A. M. Cameron and Mrs. F. Moser.

Following the installation the ladies of the club served a dainty feed purposely gotten up for the occasion. The delicacies were really tempting and were flavored in such a way as to tempt the most delicate appetite.

Encouragement to the club has been growing steadfastly, new members being acquired every meeting night.

"The Last King of Scotland"

Running time: 121 minutes
MPAA rating: R

Director Kevin Macdonald has made a fantastic historical drama and character study with his film "The Last King of Scotland," the story of a young Scottish doctor who is taken under the wing of Ugandan dictator Idi Amin (Forest Whitaker).

The film takes place in 1970 at the beginning of Amin's reign. A naive, young doctor, Nicholas Garrigan (James McAvoy), travels to Uganda looking for adventure and to escape the prospect of working at a dull practice in Scotland with his father. He takes a job in a small village's clinic along with a British couple (Adam Kotz and the magnificent Gillian Anderson). Not long after his arrival, Garrigan has a chance meeting with Amin and is soon seduced by the dictator to become his personal physician — a job that escalates in complexity, responsibility and danger.

"The Last King of Scotland" is beautifully photographed, and Macdonald keeps the story rolling at a breathy pace. But what really drives this film are the bravura performances by Forest Whitaker and James McAvoy.

Whitaker plays Amin with such passionate energy, he blows everyone off the screen — except McAvoy. The chemistry between these two fine actors is electrifying. Watching the scene where Amin feigns vulnerability in order to enlist the doctor as his personal physician is an amazing performance, worthy of an Academy Award.

Then, as the film progresses, we see the doctor learning more and more about the atrocities committed by the dictator, and we see their relationship become more and more volatile.

"The Last King of Scotland" is a great film. I heartily recommend it.

The Best Old Movies for Families: A Guide to Watching Together
by Ty Burr
(Anchor Books, $16.95)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

There's nothing better that settling down with the family and watching a classic old film together. Ty Burr, a film critic for The Boston Globe, knew his family had reached the point of no return when his daughter suggested a Katharine Hepburn party to celebrate her 9th birthday. They chose the 1938 classic "Bringing Up Baby" to be the highlight of the festivities.

Even though Burr understood his daughter's love for the old black and white films, he wondered how many of her schoolmates would make it through Hepburn's screwball classic. He decided to find out.

Invitations were sent that featured a vintage photo of Hepburn, and almost immediately parents voiced concerns that their children would get bored and not find the old film entertaining. They were wrong. The 18 kids who attended the party howled with delight as they watched Hepburn and Cary Grant match wits with a rather headstrong leopard.

Everyone learned a valuable lesson that day. Never underestimate the entertainment value of classic films, even if they are decades old and lacking in the latest technical tricks.

One of the results of the birthday party film fest is Burr's excellent guide, which is geared to help parents introduce their children to some of the greatest films ever made.

For little ones ages 3–6, there are fast-paced movies that are simple without being stupid. "Singin' in the Rain" is a good example. For older children ages 7–12, the films feature killer stories such as "The African Queen" and "Some Like It Hot." Teenagers will appreciate such thrillers as Alfred Hitchcock's "The Birds" and "Rear Window."

This highly readable guide is terrific and an absolute treasure.

Good Housekeeping

Tip: Olive Oil

Pressing tree-ripened olives produces the prized liquid we know as olive oil. Its flavor, color and fragrance depend on the region and quality of the harvest.

In general, extra-virgin olive oil, from the first pressing, is full-flavored, bright green to green-gold in color, and best used on salads or other dishes where its taste can be most appreciated. Regular olive oil (sometimes called pure olive oil) is from a subsequent pressing and has a milder, but still distinctive olive flavor; it's a good cooking oil. Light olive oil has been specially treated to remove much of the characteristic olive taste; it is not lower in fat.

Store olive oil in a cool dark place for up to six months. Don't buy more than you can use; it can turn rancid, especially if stored in a warm place.

Whole-Wheat Pita Pizzas With Vegetables

PREP: 10 minutes
COOK: about 25 minutes
MAKES: 4 main-dish servings

- 1 teaspoon olive oil
- 1 medium red onion, sliced
- 2 garlic cloves, crushed with press
- 1/4 teaspoon crushed red pepper
- 8 ounces broccoli florets, cut into 1 1/2-inch pieces
- 1/4 cup water
- Salt
- 1 can (15 to 19 ounces) garbanzo beans, rinsed and drained
- 1 cup part-skim ricotta cheese
- 4 (6-inch) whole-wheat pitas, each split horizontally in half
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 2 medium plum tomatoes (12 ounces), cut into 1/2-inch chunks

1. Preheat oven to 450 F. In nonstick 12-inch skillet, heat oil over medium-high heat until hot. Add onion and cook, stirring occasionally, until golden, 7 to 10 minutes. Add garlic and crushed red pepper and cook, stirring, 30 seconds. Add broccoli, water and 1/4 teaspoon salt, heat to boiling. Reduce heat to medium and cook, covered, until broccoli is tender-crisp, about 5 minutes.

2. Meanwhile, in small bowl, with potato masher or fork, mash beans with ricotta and 1/4 teaspoon salt until almost smooth.

3. Arrange pita halves on 2 large cookie sheets. Bake until lightly toasted, about 3 minutes. Spread toasted pitas with bean mixture. Top with broccoli mixture and sprinkle with Parmesan. Bake until heated though, 7 to 10 minutes longer.

4. To serve, sprinkle pitas with tomatoes.

Moments in time
THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On March 1, 1692, in Salem, Mass.. three women are charged with the illegal practice of witchcraft. More than 150 people were later accused of Satanic practices and the resulting trials ended in the execution of 19 innocent women and men.

• On March 3, 1863, during the Civil War, the U.S. Congress passes a conscription act that produces the first wartime draft of U.S. citizens in American history. Exemptions from the draft could be bought for $300 or by finding a substitute draftee.

• On March 2, 1925, shield-shaped highway number markers are used for the first time. Later, interstate highway numbering was improved by the odd-even demarcation that distinguishes between north-south and east-west travel.

• On March 4, 1944, Louis "Lepke" Buchalter, the head of Murder, Inc., is executed at Sing Sing Prison. He was the leader of the country's largest crime syndicate until members of his killing squad turned into witnesses for the government. Lepke was able to order final hits on his betrayers from jail before his execution.

• On Feb. 26, 1957, the final radio episode of "Dragnet" airs. Producer and writer Jack Webb tried to make the show as realistic as possible, using real police files: "Only the names have been changed to protect the innocent."

• On Feb. 27, 1964, the Italian government announces that it is accepting suggestions on how to save the renowned Leaning Tower of Pisa from collapse. In 1999, engineers finally began a slow process of soil extraction under the north side, removing no more than a gallon or two a day. Within six months, the 17-foot tilt had been reduced by an inch.

Fave Foods OF THE FAMOUS
by Steven Austin

Brett DelBuono

Brett DelBuono is one of Hollywood's busiest young actors. He has starred in numerous films, including "This Revolution" with Rosario Dawson, "The Casket" and "Freedom Park." He also has appeared on NBC's "Kidnapped" and "Casper's Scare School." The Massachusetts native can next be seen starring with Christopher Walken and George Lopez in the movie comedy "Balls of Fury," which will be released nationwide in 2007.

In addition, DelBuono will be playing the role of the young "Glen Abbott" on the new Fox TV comedy series "The Winner," set to debut this spring. When not working or in school, the 14-year-old enjoys hanging out with his brothers and friends, playing ice hockey and attending Boston Red Sox games. To learn more about "Balls of Fury": www.roguepictures.com

You starred in "The Casket." So which food do you dislike so much that you'd like to bury it forever?

"It would have to be Spam. I had it at a friend's house, and we are no longer friends! Just kidding."

Other than seafood, what items are best in your home state of Massachusetts?

"Do you count New England clam chowder as seafood? Actually, in the fall, we go apple-picking. We pick bushels of apples and we eat them outright, or use them to make applesauce and apple pies."

Tell us about a favorite scene you've done involving eating.

"On the set of "The Casket," we had a buffet set up that included a huge platter of spaghetti and meatballs. It took us three days to film the scene, and we had to leave the food in the exact same place for continuity. By the third day, it smelled so bad that we started spraying air freshener on the food.

That was the same day I had to help myself to a plateful of the spaghetti and meatballs as part of the scene, and make it look like I was eating the meatball. While lifting the meatball to my mouth, the smell of it went right into my nose and made me want to gag. As horrible as it was at the time, now whenever I look back on it I can't help but laugh."

Favorite fast foods:

"Chicken Tenders with sweet and sour sauce at Burger King. Honey barbecue wings and mashed potatoes with gravy at KFC. McDonald's french fries."

Have you ever cooked an entire meal?

"One of my favorite meals is shepherd's pie. One afternoon, when my mother was making it, I asked her if she could show me how she prepares it. It is also her favorite meal, and I thought that if I learned how to make it I could surprise her with it on her birthday. When I made it for her, I found that it took a lot of time to do, but it was actually not that hard. I also make a great hot nacho dip for when we watch movies and sports. Really easy and tasty."

BRETT'S HOT NACHO DIP

- 1 pound very lean ground beef
- 1 can Hunts tomato sauce
- 1 envelope taco seasoning mix (hot)
- 1 (16 ounce) bag of "4-cheese Mexican" shredded cheese
- 1 bag nacho chips

Brown the ground beef. Drain fat and return to pan. Stir in seasoning mix, then pour tomato sauce over mixture. Simmer at low for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour mixture into casserole or baking pan and cover with cheese. Heat uncovered at 300 F until cheese melts and sauce is boiling on sides of pan. Spoon onto chips. Add jalapenos if desired.

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY

The City of West Sacramento Public Works and Community Development Department has completed preparation of a Draft Environmental Impact Report (EIR) for the South River Road Barge Canal Crossing and Village Parkway Extension Project. The City is seeking to reconstruct the existing two-lane South River Road from the Yolo Barge Canal to the Business 80 off-ramp, located on the eastern edge of the City within Yolo County. The proposed project will also extend Village Parkway from Stonegate Drive to a proposed canal crossing to connect with South River Road. An overcrossing is proposed as part of the Village Parkway Extension.

The project area and vicinity is bounded on the north by the US 50/Business 80 interchange at South River Road/Riske Lane, on the east by the Sacramento River, on the south by the Village Parkway/Stonegate Drive intersection, and on the west by Jefferson Boulevard. The Jefferson Boulevard Bridge is situated between the Sacramento Deep Water Ship Channel to the west and the barge canal to the east. The Port of Sacramento is located west of the project area.

The Draft EIR evaluates potential project effects on a range of resources, including aesthetics, air quality, biological resources, cultural resources, geology and soils, hydrology and water quality, hazards, land use, noise, public services and utilities, and traffic, as well as cumulative and growth-related impacts. Mitigation measures are proposed where feasible to reduce significant impacts. Alternatives to the project are evaluated qualitatively and compared to the proposed project.

The Draft EIR is now available for a 45-day public review and comment period. The comment period is from February 21, 2007 through April 6, 2007. You may obtain a copy of the document at the City of West Sacramento Public Works and Community Development Department, located at 1110 West Capitol Avenue, Second Floor, West Sacramento, California between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. (except holidays).
